

 National Aeronautics and Space Administration
Jet Propulsion Laboratory
California Institute of Technology
Pasadena, California

Hurricane Lane
On September 11, 2000, Hurricane Lane is a well-formed Pacific storm. Earlier, in its tropical storm stage, its track northwestward in the Pacific made a highly unusual loop. The cloud image is derived from GOES visible and thermal infrared channels, while the colored background is from a previously derived LANDSAT composite thematic map.

GOES Project Homepage
<http://goes.gsfc.nasa.gov>

To:

